

ÉRIC KALALA NSANTU, THE NEW CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER OF BOLLORE TRANSPORT & LOGISTICS DRC

Éric Kalala Nsantu is the new Chief Executive Officer of Bolloré Transport & Logistics in the DRC. Having been Managing Director of the Congolese subsidiary since 2019, he now succeeds François Kaniki, who was Chair of the Board of Directors at Bolloré Transport & Logistics for more than ten years.

Eric Kalala Nsantu has strong experience in financial management and mining logistics. He is a graduate in Business Engineering of the Administration and Management Institute at Université Catholique de Louvain, and holds a Masters in International Management from HEC Paris and a General Management Program diploma from Harvard Business School.

Éric Kalala's mission is to strengthen the company's logistics offer in the DRC. This will include supporting projects to develop the country's supply chain. The expertise and experience of the 800 employees in the DRC will enable the new CEO to guarantee Bolloré Transport & Logistics' contribution to the country's social and economic development.

"I would like to thank our Chair and the Senior Management of Bolloré Transport & Logistics for this great expression of confidence. I fully appreciate the significance of the responsibility François Kaniki is passing on to me, and I am privileged to have received his valuable advice. At a time when Covid-19 is destabilising economies, we will unite our teams to stand firm against the crisis, navigate our way to economic recovery, and continue to ensure quality service to our customers."
